

MITOLO

PRESS REVIEWS

2014 7th SON GRENACHE SHIRAZ SAGRANTINO
MCLAREN VALE

96 POINTS

No one will go breaking the heart of cherry-plum flavour, the flash of herbs, the whispers of smoky oak here; tannin simply won't allow it. There are big ropes of stuff wrapped firm around the hull of the fruit... It's quite monumental.

James Halliday Aust. Wine Companion 2017, James Halliday, August 2016

96 POINTS

A blend of grenache, shiraz and sagrantino. It works. Boy, does it work. That may not be a great description, but you can work it out for yourself. Dark and deep on the nose, the wine sits brooding at the front of the palate before majestically unfurling as it journeys. Flavours are immense, even intense, at points. Just hold it in the mouth and the experience will reward the buying of the wine. $35 and well worth it.

The Key Report, Tony Keys, September 2016

SILVER MEDAL

Melbourne International Wine Competition, July 2016

93 POINTS

It feels fluid. It's exquisitely well structured. It shows herbs and fruits and balance in good measure, and it floats out through the finish as if nothing in the world could stop it. It's not heavy but it's not light; it's berried and ripe but it's not sweet.

Winefront.com, Campbell Mattinson, April 2016

91 POINTS

Wine Business Magazine, Tyson Stelzer, Jan/Feb 2017

90 POINTS

Medium garnet-purple colored, the 2014 7th Son Grenache Shiraz is redolent of kirsch, raspberry preserves and chocolate box with touches of Provence herbs and cloves. The palate offers lively red fruit and baking spice flavors with soft, velvety tannins a plenty of freshness, plus a long finish to boot.

The Wine Advocate, Lisa Perrotti-Brown, August 2016
